

Masserie e Dimore storiche nel Salento Tour

Accommodation: Masseria Pagani - Bio Masseria S.Lucia

Masseria Pagani dates back to the 15th century, it develops through courtyards, gardens, the church, the oven, the millstone (where the grapes were pressed and where the winemaking process began in large tanks dug into the stone), the stables, the arcade, the barn, the dovecote tower (shelter to the pigeons that were used as message carriers and for the production of guano, excellent fertilizer) and the fence with the typical dry stone walls and vegetable garden, organically grown with its products at the base of all the dishes you will taste. To welcome you in the house, the owners: Gabriele and Simona (also chefs of traditional dishes).

Masseria Pagani (Nardò - Gallipoli)

BioMasseria Santa Lucia is an authentic ancient Masseria steeped in history, where it is possible to dive into a past when human life and work were shaped by the passing of seasons and influenced by the weather. The building has been brought to new life using ancient, simple and natural materials such as lime, stone and wood, in a minimalist way so as not to spoil the ancient harmony. Today it is possible to plunge in the serenity and harmony of the past, hosted in sober but comfortable and welcoming guest rooms, or relaxed in the Masseria's courtyard, coddled by the owners Luciana and Danilo, who live in the Masseria all year round.
